A SAFARI CELEBRATING HOPE: MAKING A DIFFERENCE FOR AFRICAN GRANDMOTHERS AND THEIR FAMILIES

JULY 21 - AUGUST 4, 2011

You are invited to experience a most unique safari with Mary Martin Neipold, journalist, writer, lecturer, professor, a 2009 Purpose Prize Fellow and founder of The Nyanya Project, an NGO which serves the "Forgotten Face" of the AIDS crisis – grandmothers who are raising grandchildren orphaned by AIDS. Travel with Mary in Kenya where you will visit two of The Nyanya Project's initiatives, in Nairobi and in the tiny village of Ndathi. Here you will meet grandmothers who are learning skills that enable them to become self-sufficient as they care for their grandchildren.

Mary and her guests will travel to four unequalled and diverse habitats including the breathtakingly beautiful Samburu Game Reserve, most famous for its elephant population, and Lake Nakuru National Park, where you will see thousands of flamingos, a wide variety of wildlife species including, the rare Rothschild's giraffe, and perhaps, the elusive leopard. Ol Pejeta, the largest black rhino sanctuary in Kenya, is also included, as is the thrilling Maasai Mara Game Reserve – also known as the "Kingdom of the Lions." This safari corresponds with the great migration season when hundreds of thousands of zebra and wildebeest travel together. All accommodations are in beautiful and comfortable permanent tented camps and lodges.
